JR ROTC FOOD DRIVE

The Casa Roble High School Air Force Junior ROTC cadets working hard for two weeks by collecting almost 750 non perishable food items, coming through for the local community members of Orangevale. The cadets donated all the food packages to the Divine Savior Church Food Bank in Orangevale just in time to help stock their shelves so the church volunteers could put together food baskets for needy families in the area. The cadets were so happy to be able to give back and the knowing they made a positive difference in peoples lives, especially during this giving time of year.

STUDENT COUNCIL PROJECT COLLECTS OVER 3,000 BOOKS

Stephanie Tice's fourth grade class celebrates winning the book collection contest by collecting 550+ books

San Juan Unified school board member Mike McKibbin was overwhelmed. In the small lobby of Green Oaks Fundamental School sat over 1,000 beautiful children's books to be distributed to at-risk children in poverty. Wondering if he could even fit all the books into his car.

Albano was referring to the school's annual Student Council project; this year, it was a book drive to collect new and gently-used books to donate to at-risk children in poverty. Struck by the statistics that the average middle class child has 13 books in the home and that in some under-resourced communities there is one book for every 300 children, the Student Council decided to act. The World Literacy Foundation finding that 3 fourths of 4th graders who finish 4th grade reading below age level will end up in prison or on welfare struck the hearts of Student Council members. Through enthusiastic marketing and holding a contest to see which classroom could collect the most books, the Student Council led Green Oaks to collect 3,328 books in 4 weeks.

Teacher Joe DaMarto, faculty liaison to the Student Council, said "The book collection was easy—the kids did everything! The competition between the classrooms made it fun. The larger community of Green Oaks is extremely supportive," DaMarto added. "We have great parents who are willing to help out as long as they are informed. Our job in Student Council was to spread the message, and I think we had a lot of success."

The books, distributed by McKibbin and his wife Celeste, were given to children in Mexico, Africa, the Philippines, and other developing areas of the world. Locally, the books went to Grand Oaks Elementary Head Start, Sacramento Receiving Home for neglected and abused children, and Only Love Preschool on Howe Avenue, which serves young children in a high-risk underserved area West Sacramento. Over 1500 books went to the Unsung Heroes project for Sacramento veterans and their families. Some of the books were given to children in migrant camps.

Sixth grader Audrey Wherry a Student Council co-president, shared that "I'm glad we did the Second graders Sarah and Nicole from Julie Duncan's classroom help bring books to Mike McKibbin's car.

STUDENT COUNCIL PROJECT COLLECTS OVER 3,000 BOOKS

Mike McKibbin, Joe DaMarto, and Green Oaks Student Council members celebrate their achievement with Love Talk Read bags.

book drive because it helped all those kids who were not as fortunate as some of us. I personally really like helping people and this is a great way for everyone to chip in a little bit; they are supporting kids who might not know how to read yet."

Co-president Sophie Golden, also a 6th grader, added that "I think it was really good that we did the book drive because I feel that everyone should have the opportunity to read! The kids here are very supportive and they all want to help. It was just a really fun experience to know that we are helping the community."

Both students and staff were astonished by the sheer number of books that were collected. Sixth grade student council member Meghan Burns stated that "I'm really happy that we were able to get more than 3000 books instead of the 1,000 we expected. It's great that we could help other students in our district and in other countries."

On this same theme, 4th grade Student Council Sadie Moore added that "I'm happy that we did this because there are people around the world who can start with books to help their learning. We helped people in need and that is very special. You want to make people feel good by doing something for them.

5th grade Student Council member Elizabeth Avery said "I'm really glad that we collected the books because reading is a good life skill. I'm glad we got everyone to kick in with helping kids get books;."

4th grade Student Council member Landon Dempsey was equally happy that the book collection would help brighten the future for children in poverty by increasing their literacy skills. "I'm happy that kids that aren't as fortunate as us can learn like all kids should be able to do," he said.

Stephanie Tice, the teacher of the 4th grade class that won the competition for collecting the most books. Her class collected over 550 books, and she shared that "It's a great time of year to do something for others. What better way to spread the love of reading than to send books all over the world?"

Principal Robert Reynolds was more than impressed with the results of the book drive. "When we have a grass roots effort, including the student council and their leadership, these students help take the message of the importance of reading to other kids. This is the result."

School's Secretary, Cris Albano agreed with the surprising numbers of books collected. "At Green Oaks, you have to be careful what you wish for because they will go above and beyond what is required. You will get more books than you ever thought possible.

School board member Mike McKibbin summed up the experience. "Once again, the young people of San Juan Unified, especially Green Oaks, came through in epic fashion by collecting more than 3,000 books that will go all over the world as well as locally to give kids the opportunity to read and succeed for a brighter future." McKibbin's son Mark, a sophomore at George Washington University in Washington, D.C., attended Green Oaks for several years.

CALIFORNIA IS FAILING PEOPLE WITH MENTAL ILLNESS

Assemblyman Kevin Kiley

Mental illness is on the rise in California. And we are not doing nearly enough to get help to those who need it.

This epidemic affects one in 20 adults and one in 13 children, tearing at the fabric of our community in countless ways: from the silent suffering of millions to the louder impacts on crime, poverty, and a growing homeless population. Yet at least half of Californians with mental illnesses are untreated; when treatment is provided, it is often in a jail or prison; and the effectiveness of such treatment is mixed, at best.

This treatment gap is startling, because our state has made mental health funding a priority. In 2004, voters passed Proposition 63, dedicating roughly $2 billion a year on top of existing mental health spending. This revenue stream is untouchable, enshrined in the California Constitution. Yet more than a decade later, the state has little to show for it. Despite isolated examples of high-performing programs making a difference in some counties, there is scant evidence of any overall reduction in mental illness or the social problems associated with it. What went wrong?

Bureaucracy, for one. Responsibility for a statewide mental health strategy is divided between three separate agencies, as documented by the leading government watchdog known as the Little Hoover Commission. Shared responsibility has turned into collective neglect, as no individual agency accepts leadership for evaluating programs, assisting counties, and implementing a long-term vision.

The largest of these agencies, the Department of Health Care Services (DHCS), even admitted to auditors that efforts at oversight are “not very robust.” That may be an understatement. More than half of California’s 58 counties no longer even bother to submit their annual reports to DHCS on how they are spending mental health funds, even though the law requires this as a condition of the funding. As a result, failed programs continue, successful ones are not scaled up, and many suffering Californians fall through the cracks.

It is time for the Legislature to show leadership on this vitally important issue, rather than simply await a self-correction from the bureaucracy that will never come. That starts by removing the responsibility for oversight from DHCS, and creating an independent Mental Health Care

Commissioner who is directly accountable to the Legislature, and whose sole responsibility will be effectively using mental health funds to fight the scourge of mental illness.

For the sake of millions of Californians who are suffering, we must do better.

Assemblyman Kevin Kiley represents the 6th Assembly District, which includes parts of El Dorado, Placer, and Sacramento counties. On Friday, February 2 he will be hosting a community coffee with Senator Jim Nielsen from 8:00 to 10:00 a.m., to take place at the Maidu Community Center in Roseville (1550 Maidu Drive).

WHY I SUPPORT AN EXPANSION OF PROPOSITION 13

Supervisor Sue Frost

The last board meeting of the year has come and gone, and I have officially completed my first year as your County Supervisor. During the year I made it a point to write an opinion piece every month – some of them were to explain how and why I voted the way I did, some were to explain my stance on a controversial issue, and some were to simply bring to your attention an important topic that impacts Orangevale residents. I noticed though as I reviewed all 11 of them that very few of them were positive. So in the spirit of the holiday season, I want to use my 12th article of the year to be about something I am advocating in support of: the expansion of Proposition 13.

As you may know, Proposition 13 was passed in 1978 by a large margin and resulted in a cap on property tax rates in California, reducing property taxes by an average of 57% while also requiring a two-thirds majority in both legislative houses for future tax increases. Unsurprisingly, opinion polls conducted since then have shown it remains wildly popular among homeowners and taxpayers.

But there are two notable catches to Proposition 13. First, if you want to ever sell your home and buy a new one for a higher value, your new home will be taxed at a brand new rate and you will lose your former cap. Second, even if your new home is a lower value than the one you sold, you lose your former cap if the new home is in a different county. This causes a disincentive to sell, causing less turnover in the housing market and making it more difficult for young people to buy a home. This is especially problematic in California, as we are experiencing a housing crisis that has homeownership rates at their lowest since World War II. I know this personally impacts me, as I would never dream of selling my home if I knew I would lose my lower property tax rate.

We can fix this rather easily by removing these two impediments. We need to make it so all counties can accept these transfers from counties across California, and we need to make it so you can buy a more expensive home and keep a similar tax rate.

I fully recognize that expansion of Proposition 13 would not just allow homeowners to keep more money in their bank account, but as a consequence counties would receive less tax revenues. As such, my stance may be an unpopular one among County Supervisors across California, as government representatives have a tendency to be wary of any efforts to strip their governmental entities of funding. I am convinced however that people being able to keep more of their tax dollars at home would have a positive impact on our local economy and provide more homeownership opportunities to entry level homebuyers.

Finally, I want to invite everyone to my first Orangevale community meeting of 2018, on January 10th at 6:00pm at the Orangevale Community Center (6826 Hazel Avenue). This is an opportunity for you to get an update from me and to ask me any questions you may have. I always stay after the meeting to make sure that every person has an opportunity to ask their questions. Thank you for reading – and as always, if you want to contact me, call me at 916-874-5491 or e-mail me at SupervisorFrost@saccounty.net. Sue Frost represents the 4th District, which includes all or part of the communities of Citrus Heights, Folsom, Orangevale, Antelope, Rio Linda, Elverta, Gold River, Rancho Murietta, North Highlands, Carmichael, Foothill Farms and Fair Oaks. By County Supervisor Sue Frost

How to Share Family History and Heirlooms with Your Estate Plan

The best time to share your family history with loved ones is right now. During the holidays families get together and stories are exchanged. You may have special items that go along with your stories, such as yearbooks, a baptism dress, a silver comb, news articles, or photographs. As you share these stories, you may decide that you would like to give a special item to one of your loved ones. Heirlooms are a tangible way of connecting with ancestors. To pass on your heirlooms, you can use a personal property memorandum in your estate plan. The Memorandum allows you to list which personal property items you wish to leave to whom. Some examples of items are: jewelry, books, instruments, furniture, collections, letters, and photographs. A Personal Property Memorandum should be referenced in your Will or Trust. Once a Personal Property Memorandum is properly created, it is easily updated and the updates seldom have to be done with an attorney.

It is important to put your wishes in writing. Verbal wishes can cause family disharmony after you are gone. Loved ones grieve in differing ways, and it is common for family members to want to cling to your things as a way to connect with you. It is not uncommon to have families torn apart as they disagree on what the wishes and desires were of their family member that has passed on. When your wishes are in writing it is clear to the Executor and to all involved how to distribute your items. This holiday season connect with your family by sharing stories. If there is an item that you would like to give to a family member contact an Estate Planning Attorney to properly document the gift. Sam Swenson is the Managing Attorney at The Swenson Law Firm. He offers free consultations for Estate Planning. To find out more about Creating a Personal Property Memorandum call 916-333-0833.

How Much Home Can You Really Afford?

Chances are, you've heard it before: start your search for your first home with a clear idea of how much you can afford. But how do you calculate your budget? Here are some guidelines.

1. Lenders Often Use the 28/36 Method of Qualifying Buyers

The monthly payment cannot exceed 28 percent of your monthly income, and the total of all debt payments is limited to 36 percent of your income.

2. The Lender Percentages Are Usually Maximums

Not everyone can afford the largest home they qualify for. You need to look carefully at your expenses and lifestyle to see whether you can pay the maximum, month after month.

Families with high medical expenses, auto repair bills or educational costs, for example, may decide to take out a smaller mortgage rather than borrow the most they can.

3. Inquire About the Monthly Principal and Interest Payments on the Loan You Qualify for Add in the monthly cost for property taxes, homeowners insurance and homeowner association dues, if any. Estimate utility, credit card and car payments. Add all these items to the monthly mortgage to get your total fixed expenses. Also, figure in some routine maintenance costs. Subtract the total from your monthly income to get an idea of how much discretionary spending money you will have left at the end of the month in your new home.

4. Don't Put All Your Money Into the New Home
Plan to have several months'

worth of income in a savings account for emergencies after you pay closing costs. Also, allow for start-up costs such as new furniture and draperies, paint and wallpaper, new tools and equipment, etc.

5. Consider Moving to Bigger Home in Steps, Rather Than All At Once

After considering all the figures, you may decide to move into your first home now, even if it is not your dream home. In a few years, your dream home may be within a comfortable reach.

BIG DAY OF SERVICE

ORANGEVALE ~ FAIR OAKS

SATURDAY - MAY 5, 2018

What is Big Day of Service?

Big Day of Service is a grassroots, all-volunteer led initiative to make a positive impact in Orangevale and Fair Oaks. We hope to unite the community around the idea that we can all make things better by working together. In 2018, we expect to rally 500 volunteers and tackle 25 local projects to beautify and improve our neighborhoods. A group of community leaders has been planning the event and is looking for project suggestions as well as more project leaders and volunteers. We believe that communities get better when they serve together, and everyone can play a role in making this happen.

Saturday, May 5

7:45 am

Volunteer Check-in & T-shirts

8:00 - 9:00 am

Community Pancake Breakfast

9:00 - 10:00 am

Kick-off Rally

10:00 am

Projects begin in a variety of locations around Orangevale and

Fair Oaks

What is the purpose?

Purpose is to bring neighbors together to create a positive impact in the community and create a ripple of kindness and service. Our community needs something positive to rally behind, look forward to, and celebrate for months to come. Good things happen when people intentionally serve others and do something bigger than themselves. And there are many unmet needs where an army of volunteers could make a big impact in one day.

Who is involved in this event?

A group of 30+ community members -- including representatives from County Supervisor Sue Frost's office, as well as individual leaders, local organizations, businesses, and some of the area's largest churches -- has been planning the event and is looking for project suggestions as well as more project leaders and volunteers.

What types of projects will there be?

A wide range of projects will be proposed such as cleaning up public areas, school and park projects, senior care home activities, preparing military care packages, and more. Projects will be in Orangevale and Fair Oaks, have between 10-50 volunteers, and will have a broad community benefit. Projects serving individuals will be considered, but prefer to serve through local organizations. We're planning to source project ideas from neighbors in the community who see a need and want to work alongside the community to make it better.

Orangevale Cooks

by Suzanne Feblowitz

Happy New Year! Why not resolve to try a new recipe this year or share a recipe? I am hoping to receive many new recipes from readers this year! In this issue, I am sharing my family favorite recipe for linguine and clams. I have been making this recipe for over 25 years. It is very quick and easy to make. You can serve it with bread and a salad for a complete meal.

If you would like to share a favorite recipe, please send a copy to Suzanne Feblowitz at the Orangevale View (editor@ovview.com). Be sure to include your phone number or email with your recipe in case we need to contact you. If you wish to remain anonymous, just let us know and we will omit your name.

Linguine and Clams
 ¼ cup butter
 ¼ cup olive oil
 3 cloves garlic, pressed
 2 cans minced clams
 1 tsp dried oregano leaves
 1 tsp dry basil
 1/8 tsp crushed red pepper
 1 ½ cups chopped parsley, if using dried use ¾ cup
 1 pound linguine, cook while preparing sauce

In a large pan, melt butter with olive oil on low. Add garlic, stir and cook for a few minutes; do not let garlic burn. Drain the juice from the cans of clams into the butter mixture. Add oregano, basil and red pepper. Simmer for 5 minutes. Add parsley and clams to pan and heat for several minutes.

Toss with cooked linguine. This makes 5 to 6 main dish servings.

OUR WORLD TODAY

Do you think our world has gone to pot? Then look around and you might see We've legalized the things that's caused it So how could we expect it not to be

There's no thought nor consideration To the dangers it can cause When we put money ahead of values By passing these senseless, thoughtless laws

We haven't curtailed the sale of weapons To everyone across our land Now we're worried about increased drug use When it's now available to anyone's hand

We are told that honesty and integrity Should be taught by those at home But how can we expect it to be effective When by our leaders it is not shown

If we want to bring pride back to our country Make us proud for the world to see Then we must change our acts and thinking And make good sense "Our First Priority" By: Doris Eutzler

CHRISTMAS FOR ALL

For the third year, Orangevale Rotary has brought Christmas to the less fortunate in the area. Thirty seven families celebrated Christmas this year because of the assistance of the Rotary Club itself and several committed donors and volunteers. So much thanks to the Orangevale Grange, who gave us the use of their hall to run the program. It has grown so much already that we needed a larger building, and the Grange came through for no cost to the program. We hear so much about charities that use most of their donations for overhead. Because of the good people in the Grange, we are able to keep this program overhead free. Thank you.

Our deserving families are recommended to us by many of the churches and schools in the area as well as our own Rotary members. This year, we also received names from About Kids, another wonderful organization caring for families in need. We hope to team with them for many years to come. The only rule for participation in this program is that the receiving family cannot be receiving help from any other organization. We don't care about the makeup of the family; in fact, we helped two elderly couples, one teenage girl who just moved out of her parents' home to live on her own, as well as families as large as eight people. Three of our families are facing the horrors of caring for someone suffering from cancer and are unable to work full time. Again, no rules—only the true meaning of Christmas—helping those in need.

Each family is "adopted", completely anonymously, by another family. The adopting family gets a complete wish list from every member of the receiving family. Our goal is to provide a gift to each family member, Christmas dinner for the family, and as much lunch food as possible for the two weeks that school is closed. We want to make sure that, school aged kids, who would normally receive free or reduced lunch during school days will not go without during the Christmas break. Many of our donor families actually have the means to provide all this from their own funds, but, for those who can't, Rotary is able to help financially. Either way, the donor family can wake up on Christmas morning with the joy of knowing that another whole family is enjoying Christmas because of their efforts.

We had many volunteers, some as young as 6. One of the youngest volunteers was there only because she needed to earn community service hours. When she left, all she could talk about was doing it again next year. She had truly seen the reality of those in need and experienced the joy of helping to fill that need. Hopefully, she will carry that spirit of service forward for the rest of her life. Next Christmas seems so far away, but it will come, and more need with it. If you can offer your assistance, either through time or money or both, or if you know someone truly in need, please contact Russ at 916-878-8600.

Orangevale Series Caregiver Workshops

Each workshop is unique and offers valuable building blocks and helpful tools for caregivers and individuals who would like to learn more about memory loss and dementia-related conditions.

Tuesday, January 16, 2018 | The Basics: Memory Loss, Dementia and Alzheimer's Disease
Dr. Vanessa Mandal, Geriatrician, Mercy Medical Group's Geriatric Division
 Learn about the differences between normal aging and dementia, the basics of Alzheimer's disease and related disorders, the diagnostic process, and management of the disease. Learn about resources offered by the Alzheimer's Association, keys for planning for the future, and how family members and caregivers can help the person with dementia.

Tuesday, February 20, 2018 | Learning Dementia Language
Stephanie Wilson, Program Supervisor, Triple R Adult Day Program, City of Sacramento
 One of the most stressful aspects in providing care for someone with memory loss is feeling as if you cannot communicate with each other. If the person with dementia does not feel understood, they may appear anxious and irritated or even prone to wandering or agitation. In this workshop, we explore ways to recognize the non-verbal cues your loved one may be giving you and advice about how to structure conversations to best meet the communication needs for the person with dementia.

Tuesday, March 20, 2018 | Driver Safety and the Aging Driver
Jerrod Sieberg, DSM I, Senior Driver Ombudsman Northern California Region, DMV
 Hear ideas for safe, prolonged driving independence from the local DMV Senior Driver Ombudsman. Topics will include: driver license renewal strategies, DMV criteria for evaluation of Alzheimer's disease and other cognitive or physical impairments, and how your health is closely connected to your driving.

TIME: 6:00-7:30 P.M. LOCATION: Divine Savior Catholic Church 9079 Greenback Lane, Orangevale, CA 95662	All workshops are FREE! For info and to RSVP, please call Senior Care Solutions: (916) 965-5565
