HUMANITY CALLS, AND A COMMUNITY ANSWERS

By: Charlie Moynahan

Humanity is defined by "the quality or condition of being human", according to Webster's Dictionary. In 2017, many people have pondered the question of what level of humanity exists in the world, and if seeing visible examples of this virtue is even possible.

To the Orangevale Community, and now others across the world, the answer is a resounding "yes".

The story begins in 1933, when twins Gary and Klifford Koekoek were born in the Netherlands. Under Nazi rule, the brothers quickly discovered their life was going to be challenging – they just weren't quite sure that, after enduring battlefields and adjusting to life on more than one continent, they would be finding themselves stranded on the streets of Fair Oaks, homeless.

We all understand what it is to be human, and in times of dire need and duress, the need is never more present. This thinking is likely what propelled a family friend of the twins, Aaron Hoerner, to see if a simple Facebook post could awaken the empathy of people within his small niche of Orangevale. The post quickly caught the attention of news agencies, and soon Mr. Hoerner was being requested by these broadcasters to setup a GoFundMe page.

Continue from front pager

"People will want to help, and will want to know where to do that most effectively," Aaron Hoerner was told. That night, his wife, Lisa Hoerner, setup an account with a humble request: $5,000. "Please consider helping these wonderful members of our community be able to afford to find a place to call home," the GoFundMe request reads. In short, the Hoerners were asking for us to find our humanity for these two people who have experienced a tremendous loss. In under 12 hours, it quickly became apparent to the Hoerners that their request of $5,000 was going to be long forgotten. They had raised $10,000 before noon the next day, and after a full 24 hours, they were approaching $25,000. As of this writing, three days after the request had been made, 2,463 members of "humanity" (from as near as Fair Oaks to the far reaches of the UK) have raised $99,675 for these two veterans without a home.

The outpour of support has been positive and overwhelming. Soon after the fundraising account had been created, Aaron reached out to Gary Koekoek to let him know about the efforts to get them back inside solid shelter.

"He expressed so much hope with all the outpouring of love and support that they are receiving," Aaron recounted. As they should. Humanity is about the quality or condition of being human. An idea so powerful, so humbling, that immediately it brings people in droves to fight for it. And with over 4,000 shares of this story on Facebook, humanity isn't slowing down anytime soon.

He was six of nine children born to Clarence Spurgeon and Ruby Ethel (Kleinschrodt) Smelser whom are both deceased. He is predeceased by Sisters Pauline, Esther, Christine, and brothers John, Russel, Clarence (Pete), Carl (Jack), Raymond, and grandson Chris Kern. Bob moved to Oakland CA, where he began school in 1939

At age 17, he enlisted in the Naval Air and was honorably discharged in September 1953 as Aviation Structural Mechanic & Airman. In April 1959, his first child was born, Amber Lynn Smelser. Amber enjoyed cooking for her father and the two got to enjoy his last Father's Day together over a favorite homecooked meal.

Then in June 1960, his second child was born, Robert Eric Smelser. Eric and his father were practically inseparable when it came to hunting. The two would set out for many weekends out of the year and got to spend time together doing what they loved. In September 1960, the family moved to Orangevale, CA and purchased their first home.

Sammi

On July 26th, 2017, Samantha Boyd Fusco left this world for a better one. "Sammi Girl" was born in Santa Rosa CA, on April 4th, 1986, and for more than 31 years she brought so much love and light to everyone she knew. Sammi was a giver and a nurturer, and she touched the lives of so many with her gentle way. She made her mark in this world by being so true and loving, even altering the career paths of two very important young women in her life who proceeded to pursue involvement working with special needs individuals.

We are so going to miss her sweet smile, warm hugs and listening to her sing along to her favorite song, "I will always love you."

She is survived by her parents, Blake and Meg Fusco, and her phenomenal "little brother", Nick, who was her hero!

She is free now, free to be the person she couldn't be on this earth. All who knew Sammi are invited to a celebration of her life on Sunday, July 23rd, 2pm, at her parents' home: 8715 Taajanar Ct, Orangevale 95662

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

This letter is in response to Ruth M. Jeter's letter from your June 30th publication. She presents the perfect example of the political divide that has been created by this awful current administration, citing "sad and freightening" false news regarding the Obama administration (and the Democrats) and their attack on the bill of rights. If she were to take the time to actually look for factual truth as opposed to watching the "Faux" news channel or looking at her face book account to get her insight she would realize that the Bill of Rights has NEVER been changed. I would ask her to provide a credible source for her claims. Her right to bear arms is as it always was. Obama did indeed try to introduce a change to keep people who were on the FBI watch list from gaining access to guns but that was not passed. Personally, I think that seems like a great change. Let's make it much harder for people with potentially bad intentions to get guns. However this was paraded by the Republican party as revoking everyone's right to bear arms and clearly believed by individuals like Ms. Jeter. Now she can rest easy knowing that she can still freely purchase as many AR-15 assault rifles as she desires.

As for religious freedoms, again, what was changed in the Bill of Rights that impacts her ability to worship as she sees fit? There is no a credible source of information to support her claim that her freedom of religious choice has been impacted because nothing was changed in the bill of rights. On the topic regarding concerns of free speech, I ask how delusional can one be to be concerned over ANY former administrations attack on free speech in light of the actions of the current administration and their efforts to continually discredit any form of media that they don't agree with?

Finally, I'd ask Ms. Jeter if she actually sees the irony in her own letter. She refers to a number of religions that teach about loving your neighbors yet her overall message is only written to Republicans who see things the same way she does and have the ability to take care of themselves. Ms. Jeter it is nice to know you have yours but sad that you don't seem to care to help out others who do not find themselves as fortunate as you. Maybe this idea of helping those less fortunate is not part of your religious teachings? Religion aside, I don't mind paying taxes for public schools even though I no longer have children in them because I think it is very important to provide everyone with access to education. I also don't mind if I have to pay a little more for food if that helps increase wages for those who prepare that food to have a better life. Additional tax for gas to make sure the infrastructure we all use is in good shape?? Sign me up.

What I find "sad and frightening" is how many people can be so easily influenced by so many blatant obvious lies that support their views, truth be damned. Maybe this is why you won't actually take five minutes to see if what you are being influenced by is actually true. Here is a start: Obama was REALLY born in the USA, Mexico WON'T pay for the wall, Obama DID NOT have the Donald's wires tapped and there were NOT 3-5 million immigrants brought in to illegally vote for Clinton in 2016 just to clear up a few of the many alternative facts supported by the current administration which I simply call lies.

When the Republican Party views the Democrats as the enemy, seems to be just fine with the FACT that Russia meddled in our election and the current administration may have actually colluded with Russia in that effort, our country and our Democracy is in a place I never thought I would see. I thank the current administration for unmasking this disturbing truth. At least we now know our differences which will hopefully allow us to begin trying to find common ground. I have to cling to the belief that we all want this, whatever it may be. I wish you a good life Ms. Jeter. I hope that you can find the time to seek out unbiased correct information to at least give you a more complete set of data to shape your world views going forward and I hope you never find yourself in need as it sounds like the God you worship really only tolerates those who think like him/her and already have theirs.

The Grange would like to put a Thank you in the View to the community and businesses for their support of the 7/3 event.

The Orangevale Grange thanks all the folks who came to our Independence Day Celebration held at the Grange on 7/3. More than 500 people enjoyed the great weather, entertainment from The Rhythm Club Band and of course sitting back and watching a beautiful fireworks display. The Grange would be remiss if it didn't thank the following businesses who donate items for the raffle drawings. All the proceeds go towards supporting our local charities and schools. Thank you: Lupita's Restaurant, the Dairy Queen, Annie's Restaurant, Les Schwab, Scotts Seafood Restaurant, Auto Zone, O'Connor's Wood Fire Grill & Bar, Riebes Auto Supply, Wal-Mart, Car Quest, Safeway, LaPlacita's Restaurant, OV Market and the Greenback Rents for use of a trailer. Without the generosity of these local business our event would not be the success it was – Thank You All!!!!

KICKING THE CAN DOWN THE ROAD

District 4 County Supervisor Sue Frost

KICKING THE CAN DOWN THE ROAD

I would like to pose a hypothetical to the readers of the Orangevale View. If you have a yearly income of $40,000, a bank account with $600 in savings, and you find out you have $1,000 owed to you after you finish your tax returns, what would you do? Personally, I would save the money. Then, I would review my monthly expenses, find places to make some cuts, and do everything reasonably possible to increase my savings to a much higher number. Neglecting to do this could ultimately lead me to homelessness if I lost my job and couldn't quickly find one. I pose this question to you because Sacramento County was faced with this dilemma in the budget negotiations this past month, as we have a shockingly small amount in our reserves. We only have about 1.5% of our money in reserves when it should be closer to 15-20%. Of the larger counties in California, we have by far the lowest reserves, with the next lowest being Riverside with 9.2%, and the average being 26%. In hard numbers, our reserves are about $300 million shy of where we should be. We also have a $1.2 billion unfunded pension liability (and yes, you read that number right) but that's a story for another article.

So when I entered into budget negotiations with the knowledge that we had an increase of $47 million available funds this year to allocate, I thought it would be under the context of everyone making a deep commitment to increasing our reserves. But that is not what happened and instead, many of our discussions revolved around how to fund various new projects with the new money we had at our disposal. This was frustrating for me, because many of these new projects have great merit and I would gladly support most of them if we had the reserves to justify the expenditures.

But while I advocated for far more money to be put into reserves this year, I had to settle for the modest sum of $4.7 million, which is 10% of the available funds we were to allocate. I supported some vital new projects, like the expansion of some of our services to reduce the growing problem of homelessness, but I could not support others, like doubling the Regional Parks budget.

Saving money is not fun and it doesn't catch headlines. But I believe you elected me to stand up for the taxpayers in Sacramento County, even if it's not particularly exciting. Reserves might not seem like a big deal if you are looking at it in the short-term, but over time when another recession hits us we need reserves if we want to avoid the massive layoffs and disruptions of county services that happened in the mid-2000s.

Unfortunately we are not going to solve the problem of our reserves in the near future - we need to make this a priority for the years to come in order to dig us out of this hole. I would like to see us save 20% or more next year, and will be advocating that in the months to come. You have my commitment of continuing this fight until our fiscal house is in order.

Thank you for reading - and as always, if you want to contact me, call me at 916-874-5491 or e-mail me at SupervisorFrost@sacounty.net.

AMERICAN RIVER COLLEGE VETERANS CENTER WINS STATEWIDE DIVERSITY AWARD

One of Only Two California
Community College Programs
Recognized

The Veterans Resource Center at American River College (ARC) has been selected to receive a statewide 2017 Dr. John W. Rice Diversity & Equity Award, recognizing the Center as one of the most developed, well-staffed and fully institutionalized service programs for veterans in the state of California.

The Dr. John W. Rice Diversity & Equity Award was established in 2001 to honor community college staff members, districts, colleges or programs that have made the greatest contribution towards faculty and staff diversity or student equity. Award winners are selected for clearly demonstrating an outstanding achievement in diversity or student equity. The award was presented at a special event Tuesday, July 18, at the Crocker Art Museum in Sacramento.

"American River College is very proud of our Veterans Resource Center and we couldn't be happier that this prestigious statewide award throws a spotlight on the great work the center does," said ARC President Thomas Greene. "ARC is committed to helping those who have bravely served our country. We are inspired every day by our veteran students and this award encourages us to re-double our efforts to serve them."

Since its inception in 2013, the central mission of the ARC Veterans Resource Center has been to bridge the civilian and military cultural divide through inclusion and full integration of student veterans in campus life, while offering consistent training and engagement opportunities for staff, faculty and administration. Over the years, the Veterans Resource Center has also evolved to focus more broadly on encouraging diversity of this marginalized student population on campus, as well as supporting the statewide movement to integrate student veterans on campus and enhance overall support and services for our prior military, active duty personnel and military families. The Veterans Resource Center strives to focus on the life issues affecting veterans, to help them become successful students.

First Things to Do After You Move In To Your Home

Moving into a new home is always exciting and conjures up a wide list of things to do to get settled in. However, there are a few things that often get overlooked in the process. Here is a list of the most common 'things to do'.

Locate your home's main water shutoff valve. Know where your main water shutoff valve is in case you need to shut off the water to your entire house. Almost all homes have one main shutoff valve directly before the water meter and another directly after. Replace the furnace filter. One of the fastest ways to create problems with a heating and cooling system is to forget to replace the filter. Locate the furnace filter and buy replacements, if the previous owners didn't leave you a stash. Replace the filter and get in the habit of doing it every month. Inspect crawlspaces and the attic. It's a good idea to be familiar with the farthest corners of your home. Even if you had a Home Inspection, things can still be missed. Check for leaks, bugs, and other issues that you should address sooner rather than later. Check smoke and CO detector dates and replace, as needed. It's important that you know where your smoke and CO detectors are located and that you make sure they are working. Smoke alarms may be the cheapest, easiest and most effective means for protecting your family and your home from a fire. They should be tested regularly as well maintained. Note when it's time to replace them. Meet the neighbors. Meeting your neighbors is always beneficial for lots of reasons. You'll want to know those around you so that everyone can look out for each other. It's hard to know if a situation is suspicious if you don't know the people involved. Establishing yourself in your neighborhood can also give you access to inside information; like anything from good repair companies to annual local activities. Do My Spouse and Kids Inherit Everything if I Die Without a Will?

Many people think that if they die while they are married, their spouse and kids automatically inherit everything. Dying with out a will is called "intestate". Each state has differing intestate laws. The general rule is that your spouse will receive a portion, and the rest is divided among your heirs. We will look more closely at California Inheritance Laws in our next article. However consider these four additional questions: Who will be your kids' legal guardian? If both of the parents of minor-aged children die intestate or without a will and trust, the children are left without a legal guardian. Without this being in a will or trust, a court will appoint someone to be the children's guardian. The judge seeks to act in the children's best interests and gathers information on the parents, the children, and the family circumstances. The judge may not make the decision that you, as a parent, would have made. What about your family structure? When intestate laws were originally written, it was assumed that families consisted of a mother and a father and their natural born children. Many families are not structured this way. This can get legally complicated and is out of your hands if you die intestate. With a will or trust, you control your estate and essentially eliminate the risk of your assets going to unintended family members. What happens if you are separated from your spouse? If you are separated from your spouse when you die, state law decides what happens to your estate. The court often ignores your separation and just considers you still legally married. PETACULAR

Orangevale 4-H Horse Project has had a busy year! As we come to a close for the 2016-2017 year, we are reminded of the youth we were when we began the project and can see how we have transitioned into young leaders capable of much more than we thought we could! Throughout the year, we made friendships, memories and developed our leadership and public speaking skills. We performed patterns and tests on our horses, including the county Performance Test and Level tests. Our members were able to win awards, ribbons and trophies throughout the year. We participated in planning committees, helped run horse shows, fundraisers, community service events and meetings for our group! All of our members learned about what it takes to be a true 4-H'er though hard work, perseverance and inner strength.

This year our group rode in the Fair Oaks Christmas Parade and Orangevale Pow Wow Days parade. We participated in county events such as Farm Day, Groom Squad, Silver Shows, County horse meetings, and County Fair. Most recently, our members qualified to participate at the California State Fair best of show and horse show competition. Our members were able to also compete at an out of county event held by Placer County 4-H in February and all of our members qualified for the State 4-H Horse Classic Horse Show.

We created demonstrations and performed them for our community club, which includes all the youth, leaders and parents from Orangevale 4-H. We held various fundraisers at local business including Douglas Feed and Pet Supply in Granite Bay, Western Feed and Pet Supply in Orangevale and Park Folsom Retirement Community in Folsom. We even decorated cookies with the seniors at Sunrise of Fair Oaks Senior Living during the holidays! Thank you to these businesses for allowing our group to hold our fundraising and community service events at their locations!

In April, our group ran a snack bar at an open horse show held at Orangevale Park and Horse Arena, which we would like to thank the Sierra Foothills Horseman Association for giving us that opportunity! We hope to participate in the next show they are holding on September 16 & 17 (www.thesfha.org for more information)

We used the funds raised to purchase supplies for the Sacramento County Fair held at Cal Expo in May. Our members discussed, voted and crafted decorations for our stalls with a fun Hollywood theme titled "Horse's Walk of Fame". All of the horse groups at the fair participate in the competition! Everyone enjoyed the events and almost every member qualified for State Fair.

We held arena meetings at various locations, covering topics such as how to stop bad habits, how to improve equitation and performance, showmanship, lunging, and overall safety while spending time with our horses and friends. Thanks to O'Hanen Ranch of Loomis and Blackhawk Equestrian of Lincoln for allowing us to use their facility for a ride meeting. We held our project (without horses) meeting at Rollingwood

Athletic Club in Fair Oaks and would like to thank them for their continued support of our organization!

Other sponsors this year included Wal-Mart of Orangevale, Safeway of Fair Oaks, Raleys of Fair Oaks, Target of Citrus Heights, the Mattley family, Shauna Nelson of Newcastle for our amazing t-shirts and club banner, River Valley Feed of Rio Linda, Starbucks at Madison and Greenback in Folsom, and Pack of Sacramento.

Orangevale 4-H is holding two registration sign-up meetings in August for youth ages 5-19 that are interested in participating in the many projects that our club has to offer! Horse Project members must be age 9 and up, but there is also a Beginning Horse Project that all ages can participate in!

The sign up events will be held Tuesday, August 15th from 5-7pm and Saturday, August 26th from 4-6pm at the Round Table Pizza at 9500-1 Greenback Ln in Folsom.

More information can be found at our club's website, www.Orangevale4-H.weebly.com.

Don't forget, you don't need to live in Orangevale or even Sacramento County to participate in our club! We serve Orangevale, Folsom, Fair Oaks, Citrus Heights, Carmichael, Rancho Cordova and many other North Area cities and towns.

You can find a local 4-H club in your area by searching on the Sacramento County 4-H website, <http://sac4h.ucanr.edu>. Thank you for your interest and support to our organization! See you all next year!

ORANGEVALE WOMAN'S CLUB CELEBRATES

Year one hundred and three of the Orangevale Woman's Club ended in June with celebrations and awards. During Pow Wow Days parade OVWC was named "Best Service Club." Other club and member accolades came from the state CFWC (California Federation of Women's Clubs) and Sutter District offices that oversee the local actions. The state organization acknowledged OVWC with an award for "Membership Growth and Development Activities." Our expanding membership is a testament to good works and good times.

Jeri Baucom and Sandi Hartsock, were named the GFWC Amy Lange Award winners for Outstanding Service. Jeri and Sandi, among other club activities, organize and promote the largest fundraising events, the fall and spring bunco evenings.

Longest serving OVWC'er, Dorothy Cabodi, was recognized by the Children's Receiving Home of Sacramento for her continued devotion and support. Dorothy leads the giving in our CRHS Christmas gift drive and other outreaches. We were pleased to applaud outgoing President Jean Kelly for her years of leadership in that role and others. Her continued commitment to the Orangevale Woman's Club is a valued asset. An Orangevale native, Jean's knowledge of area history and our club's impact in the community remains a bridge to our past endeavors and future growth. Continuing OVWC treasurer, Shirley Baker, was honored for her service as "Woman's Club Member of the Year." During Shirley's six years in this position she has used her financial expertise to maintain the club's excellent standing with local businesses and, more importantly, the IRS. Shirley is a mainstay in the community with our organization and the Orangevale Grange. As liaison to and active member of both groups she is a very busy woman. Shirley oversees the upcoming co-operative OVWC and Grange venture "Back-Pack-Give-Away Program" for students at elementary and middle schools. Congratulations to these OVWC members for their hard work helping to make Orangevale a better place to live and raise our families. Well done, ladies.
