SAY WATT.....

What started months ago with a Rotary Club member's tour of the Orangevale Food Bank led to a volunteer project completed last week that will pay for half of the facility's electricity bills for decades.

Rotarian Nick Broad said he was astonished during his food bank tour by the amount and quality of food made available to those in need. He also quickly envisioned how the Rotary Clubs of Orangevale and Fair Oaks could spearhead a solar panel installation project to help power the operation's extensive refrigeration and freezer units that keep food fresh.

“He started putting it together in his head within minutes,” recalled food bank Executive Director Keith Wright, who in late February celebrated completion of the solar installation.

It's nice to be able to help, Broad said modestly. “I saw the need and I knew who needed to come together to get it done,” he said. “They all came together fairly easily.”

“This project is unique,” said Wright. “I can get grants and people are okay with getting behind projects that are ‘one and done.’ But I can't write grants to pay the bills and we cannot operate without paying the bills. This project is going to pay for half of our electricity costs for the next 25 years...helping us out in this way makes what we do possible.”

A 10.5-kilowatt array of solar panels was connected to the grid on Feb. 24 during a “Flip the Switch” ceremony attended by County Supervisor Sue Frost and many Rotarians and community members. "I was thrilled to find out that SMUD and Rotary teamed up to bring this amazing project to the Food Bank," Frost said. "This will make it much easier for the food bank to focus on its core mission of providing food and resources to families in need."

"We really enjoy helping out like this," said Orangevale Rotary President Bobby Peno. "It's good for the food bank, it's good for the volunteers, and it's really a nice thing to be involved with."

The two Rotary Clubs, with matching funds from their national organization, raised $16,000 for the project, and SMUD provided another $10,000 to complete the

"This project is a great example of the community coming together to support an important cause," said food bank founder and Orangevale Chamber of Commerce President Brad Squires.

The Orangevale Food Bank distributes food to over 400 families and 1,000 individuals per month, in many cases providing the only food available to its patrons and their children.

Good News!

WE'RE STAYING!

Mattress Warehouse is staying in the same location in a reduced size retail / warehouse space. The new owner of the building is renovating / updating the whole business center and is willing to let us remain here for a while.

So, we will continue to serve as Orangevale's only bedding / sleep shop / mattress store for a few more years hopefully. Like we have for the last 26 years.

We will be in "construction" mode for a couple months. Adding a new divider wall, re-painting, new doors and windows. Our space will be smaller and may carry a few less products - But same great prices as always. We appreciate your patience, loyalty and understanding.

Thanks, Steve McDonald, owner

GETTING HOMELESS INTO JOBS

From Theory to Reality: Getting Homeless into Jobs
By Sacramento County Supervisor Sue Frost

Exactly a year ago, I wrote an article in the Orangevale View outlining why I thought Sacramento County was in need of a work program for people who are homeless. Since then, I worked to help craft a plan that would not only employ people who are homeless, but also work to beautify Sacramento County at the same time. I am thrilled to announce to you that the plan was formally adopted at the end of January, and will begin to be implemented in March. I want to take this opportunity to explain the program to you, and share with you why I believe it will work.

Ten homeless people will be identified who are both willing to work and get clean. They will meet four days a week at a central location, and then be driven to the American River Parkway to get paid minimum wage to do cleanup work. The American River Parkway has been completely trashed in many sections due chiefly homeless encampments and negligent teenagers, so this work is much needed.

In the afternoon, they will then be driven downtown to go through a job training program. This job program is aimed to get them various certifications in the construction industry. With the surge in construction in this region, there is a lack of construction workers, and this is the perfect field for them to get entry level work in.

After ten weeks of working and going through the classes, they will have graduated

out, and a new group of ten will start the program. After leaving the program they will then get help in finding employment by getting introduced to employers, receiving job interview training, getting help creating a resume, and getting help obtaining job-appropriate clothing. This is also coupled with trying to find them a permanent housing solution.

I take great issue with new government programs that are started and turn out to be ineffective, yet get funded for eternity. With that in mind, this will be a trial program that will last for 40 weeks. After those 40 weeks, we will evaluate the program to see if it's working, whether changes need to be made, or whether we need to end the program entirely.

To get this job done, the County (with major help from Sacramento Regional Sanitation District) decided to contract with PRIDE industries, a nonprofit headquartered in Roseville. Their primary mission is to help people who have disabilities overcome employment obstacles, and empower them to lead productive, independent lives as contributing members of our community.

It seemed to me to be a perfect fit to have them work with people who are homeless, as many of their challenges are similar to people who have disabilities, such as regaining a sense of self-worth and finding reliable transportation.

I'm excited about this program because I believe finding jobs for people who are homeless is an important piece to this overall problem that we are not looking close enough at. I like the idea of giving them training in a field that sorely needs jobs, and I like the idea of teaching them what it is like again to feel accomplished for earning a paycheck by putting in a hard day's work.

I know this is a drop in the bucket in terms of solving this overall problem, but I am hopeful that we might be onto something really great here, that over time and careful development we can end up putting to work far more than just 40 people.

Before signing off, I want to invite you to my next Orangevale Community Meeting on March 13th at 6:00pm at the Orangevale Community Center (6826 Hazel Avenue). Thank you for reading – and as always, if you want to contact me call me at 916-874-5491, or e-mail me at SupervisorFrost@saccounty.net.

Sue Frost represents the 4th District, which includes all or part of the communities of Citrus Heights, Folsom, Orangevale, Antelope, Rio Linda, Elverta, Gold River, Rancho Murieta, North Highlands, Carmichael, Foothill Farms, Fair Oaks, and Rancho Cordova.

STOP THE WATER TAX

Stop the Water Tax

By Assemblyman Kevin Kiley

Our state's water challenges are significant and require innovative solutions. Unfortunately, the current leadership in Sacramento would prefer to solve these problems with new taxes and more laws rather than common sense policies.

In his recent budget proposal, Governor Newsom identified a serious problem: as many as 1 million Californians, mostly in rural and disadvantaged communities, lack consistent access to safe drinking water. His solution to this problem is a new tax on the drinking water of every resident in our state, a proposal that would cost local water agencies more to administer than it would collect in revenue statewide. I helped defeat this very same proposal in the Legislature last year.

Instead of asking even more of taxpayers, the Legislature would be wise to once again reject the Governor's proposal and utilize existing revenues, including the state's projected $21 billion budget surplus, to upgrade water treatment facilities. These additional funds would complement the state and federal funds that are already available for this purpose.

In the weeks and months ahead, I will be fighting to not only defeat the water tax, but to move our state away from the centralized, command-and-control, top-down approach to water policy that it epitomizes. The current political leadership in Sacramento contends that the only way to meaningfully secure our water future is by controlling our citizens' water use. That means forcing people to conserve through water usage caps while empowering the unelected State Water Resources Control Board to impose draconian fines.

Last year, over my objections, the Legislature passed an incredible law limiting Californians to 55 gallons of water per day of indoor use. That cap goes down to 50 gallons per day by the year 2030. In the event that a local water agency exceeds its usage allowance, the water board is empowered to fine the water district $1,000 per day, a cost that is paid by ratepayers. After 2030, the water board is even empowered to increase water usage restrictions unilaterally.

Such heavy-handed rationing is not the answer. Instead, we should increase our supply of available water by investing in our water infrastructure. That means building new reservoirs and expanding our capacity to efficiently use the water that we store. Amazingly, no new water storage capacity has been built since the 1970s -- and we have failed to adequately invest in our drainage systems. As a result, an average of 200 billion gallons of stormwater that could be captured each year instead flows into the Pacific Ocean.

Our state's water challenges will not be solved with higher taxes and punitive regulations. That's why I am fighting for common sense policies that increase water storage and maximize existing resources to provide clean water for all Californians.

Assemblyman Kevin Kiley represents the 6th Assembly District, which includes parts of El Dorado, Placer, and Sacramento counties.

Orangevale Cooks

by Suzanne Feblowitz

How many of you have an Instant Pot? If you have a favorite recipe, please send it in because I just received one for Christmas and my husband has been successfully using it. I have not used it myself, but the food that he has made has been pretty tasty. In this issue, I am sharing a delicious recipe that he recently made. One reason for the yumminess is that he used these amazing dried beans that my sister gave me for Christmas. I am warning you not to try Rancho Gordo heirloom beans because they are so flavorful that you might not be able to eat another type of bean.

- 1 Tbsp olive oil
- 1 (12.8 oz) package smoked andouille sausage, thinly sliced
- 4 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 medium onion, diced
- 2 stalks celery, thinly sliced
- 1 pound dried beans
- 1 ½ tsp Cajun seasoning
- 1 tsp dried oregano
- ½ tsp dried basil
- ¼ tsp dried sage
- 2 sprigs fresh thyme
- 2 bay leaves
- 4 cups low sodium vegetable broth
- Kosher salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste
- 1 tsp hot sauce, or more, to taste- optional
- 2 green onions, thinly sliced- optional stirring occasionally, until tender, about 3-4 minutes.

4. Stir in sausage, red beans, Cajun seasoning, oregano, basil, sage, thyme, bay leaves and vegetable broth; season with salt and pepper, to taste.

5. Select manual setting; adjust pressure to high, and set timer for 30-45 minutes. When finished cooking, release pressure naturally according to manufacturer's directions, about 20-30 minutes.

6. Serve immediately with rice and hot sauce. Garnish with green onion, if desired.

Notes: This recipe can be adapted to the slow cooker as well, just add the sausage during the last few hours of cooking. We used our brown jasmine rice and it was delicious! Great lunch leftovers!

If you would like to share a favorite fall recipe, please send a copy to Suzanne Feblowitz at the Orangevale View (editor@ovview.com). Be sure to include your phone number or email with your recipe in case we need to contact you. If you wish to remain anonymous, just let us know and we will omit your name.

RED BEANS AND RICE

- 1 ½ cups white long grain rice

1. In a large saucepan of 3 cups water, cook rice, set aside or use a rice cooker and keep it warm.

2. Set a 6 -qt. Instant Pot to the high setting. Add olive oil and sausage. Cook, stirring frequently, until sausage is lightly browned, about 3-4 minutes. Transfer to a paper towel lined dish and set aside.

3. Add garlic, onion, bell pepper and celery. Cook,

ORANGEVALE #THE JUICE

It's a Great Time to be in Orangevale! What a great February! We have experienced record rains in Sacramento and record snowfall in the Sierras this month. Spring is just around the corner and we're seeing new growth in our neighborhoods and in our community. Orangevale is pointed in a great direction with so many positive things happening and so many great things on the horizon for 2019. I'm excited to share a few.

Chamber President
Brad Squires

'GROW ORANGEVALE' COMMUNITY THEME

The Orangevale Chamber leadership kicked off 2019 with a community theme of "GROW ORANGEVALE". It is our goal to grow community, grow local business, and build upon our agricultural/rural roots. Orangevale was created as an agricultural suburb of Sacramento, and it continues to offer the rural lifestyle that we all love. Big gardens, backyard chickens, and small farms are an important part of our identity. We're excited to see the Orangevale Grange community garden project in the works, and the Orangevale Library is putting together a "Grow Orangevale" gardening education day on April 27th. Follow updates from each of those organizations for additional details. Our annual Farmers' Market is just around the corner, launching its 10th year in May.

BIG DAY OF SERVICE 2019

Also on the horizon is the 2nd Annual Big Day of Service led by the Orangevale-Fair Oaks Community Foundation along with 50-75 key volunteer leaders. We're expecting to see over 1,000 volunteers serving our communities in Orangevale and Fair Oaks on Saturday, May 11th. We'll be kicking off that community event in the parking lot of Divine Savior Catholic Church. To learn more or get involved, visit www.bigdayofservice.com.

CHAMBER HAPPY HOUR

Our Chamber member community gathered for a monthly mixer at the Orangevale-Fair Oaks Food Bank in February. A joint mixer with the Fair Oaks Chamber, we saw nearly 100 people in attendance to support this great community resource. Our membership continues to grow as we've seen a 40% increase since October 2018. Now is the time to plug your business into the Orangevale Chamber community! Our next mixer will be Thursday, March 14th at Moore's Garage, 5:30-7:30pm. Visit orangevalechamber.com for more details.

2019 CHAIRMAN'S CIRCLE

I'd like to extend a special thanks to our 2019 Chairman's Circle members - The Swenson Law Firm, Wells Fargo Bank, Orangevale-Fair Oaks Community Foundation, Landscapes by Cochran, Albano Dale Dunn & Lewis Insurance, Focus Tax & Financial, and Palmer Real Estate. You will see their logos on the windows of our new Chamber office at Hazel & Greenback. The next phase of our "Restore the Eyesore" campaign will be exterior paint - once it stops raining!

I can't say enough about this great community and the incredible amounts of passion people have for making Orangevale a great place to live and work. The Chamber's mission is to lead the advancement of our town's community and economic development. We plan to continue pushing the gas and working alongside the great people in our town to advance this important cause. Thanks again for what each of you do to contribute to our community!

GOODWILL INDUSTRIES

Believe it or not, It's been a little over a year since Goodwill came to Orangevale filling one of our long standing vacant commercial spaces in the Cable Park shopping center. It came with mixed reviews of "What will this bring to our community? And, will Goodwill live up to its name?"

Well, if creating over 40 new jobs, helping the underserved, and if finding a bargain any day of the week fits the bill, then the answer is a resounding YES!

"We are here to serve the community," said Chief Missions Officer Rachel Wickland. "As the community gives through donations, we give it right back through jobs, and supporting non-profits helping those in need. We are always looking for ways to better serve the community. It's our mission."

Last year, the Goodwill organization provided over 900,000 services to people of the Sacramento region in need of self-sufficiency. And that's just some of the help they provide.

Probably one of the biggest accomplishments of 2018 is their response to the fires in Northern California. The Goodwill network raised over $270,000 in donations, provided clothing, living supplies, and gift cards to fire victims.

"We are not just a store; we are part of the community," said Wickland. As families suffered great losses in the fires this past fall, Goodwill came to the rescue issuing over 3,500 vouchers and today we are still helping those who have yet to get back on their feet.

Down on your luck? Need a job? Goodwill is always hiring. "This is the safest place to re-enter the workforce especially anyone historically excluded from the workplace," said Wickland. "We can train anyone to do a job, but are always looking for someone kind and compassionate with a strong desire to work."

The Orangevale store currently has 42 employees and is looking to hire more. Volunteers are also welcome and it's not unusual for them to become "hooked on the mission" and join the organization like Orangevale Store Manager, Zara Tahi.

If you are lucky enough to have a job, not down on your luck but love a bargain, then this place is worth checking out! Just like its grand opening in January 2018, the store is clean, organized and well maintained with a great staff ready to serve.

"It's a treasure hunt on any given day," said Manager Tahi. "Some things like fur coats, guitars and high end vintage items are so valuable that they go on our Goodwill.com website auction. For example, a gold piece recently sold for $4,000!"

All donations go through five filters of sorting and evaluating before it hits the floor. "Our staff carefully checks for quality and price accuracy," said Tahi. "Items are constantly moving and nothing is usually out on the floor for more than seven days."

Items that don't get sold, get moved on to the Goodwill outlet where shoppers can purchase by the pound.

It's like Black Friday everyday but on a sale day you can get 50 percent off most items, Tahi added.

"We see people every day that need help and we are here for them," said Tahi. "And it's not uncommon for someone to come in a get a change of clothes. Our mission is to serve and that's what we do."

If you haven't been into the local Goodwill yet, come check it out. Tahi and the Orangevale staff will welcome you with open arms. The Orangevale Goodwill store is open seven days a week!
